2- The Whole Building Method The Whole Building Method is used for buildings, to some extent, bigger than that can be handled by the Space by space method, although it is easier than the Space by space method as you estimate the electrical load based on the activity of the whole building unlike the Space by space method which need dividing the building into multi areas with different activities.

Electrical wiring is an electrical installation of cabling and associated devices such as switches, distribution boards, sockets and light fittings in a structure.. Wiring is subject to safety standards for design and installation. Allowable wire and cable types and sizes are specified according to the circuit operating voltage and electric current capability, with further restrictions on the ...
